THE MISSING SHIP.

HER mighty sails the breezes swell,
And fast she leaves the lessening land,
And from the shore the last farewell
Is waved by many a snowy hand;
And weeping eyes are on the main,
Until its verge she wanders o'er;
But, from that hour of parting pain,
Oh! she was never heard of more!

In her was many a mother's joy,
And love of many a weeping fair;
For her was wafted, in its sigh,
The lonely heart's unceasing prayer;
And oh! the thousand hopes untold
Of ardent youth, that vessel bore;
Say, were they quenched in ocean cold,
For she was never heard of more?

When on her wide and trackless path
Of desolation, doomed to flee,
Say, sank she 'mid the blending wrath
Of racking cloud and rolling sea?
Or, where the land but mocks the eye,
Went drifting on a fatal shore?
Vain guesses all!—Her destiny
Is dark:—she ne'er was heard of more.

The moon hath often changed her form,
From glowing orb to crescent wan;
'Mid skies of calm, and scowl of storm,
Since from her port that ship hath gone;
But ocean keeps its secret well,
And though we know that all is o'er,
No eye hath seen—no tongue can tell
Her fate:—she ne'er was heard of more!

CHARTY JEM.

A TALE OF THE EARLY SETTLERS.

BY FAN FEATHERBIE.

CHAPTER I.

"You're as stubborn as Mark, to-night, and, it seems to me, 'most as crazy."

"No, Faith! I may be a little stiff, but that is all; and you go rather far to liken me to Mark—poor Wild-head."

"If you were young, and strong, as you used to be, Charity, I wouldn't say a word; but you're an old man now, and a long tramp through the woods, such a night as this, is no wise trick, I can tell you;" and Faith Charton bustled angrily over the fire.

But the old pedler only answered her by a good-natured laugh.

"Laugh away, Charty, but I wonder if all the folks in Red Chalk wouldn't say to you as I do, Stay at home to-night. Why, the wind howls like a mad thing in the woods, and the sky is nothing but one big black cloud.—I can hear the Ford roaring, and I know the freshets have swelled it like any river."

"I guess they have; but, if the logs ain't swept away, I'll cross the Ford to-night. Don't fret about it, Faith; I won't cross alone; I'll get some one in the village to go with me as far as the White Oak, and then let the wind and rain come as they please. I know every turn in the woods, and will soon be out of it."

"Well, after all, I am sure you might wait till morning light."

"If I do, Faith, I'll be too late for Grayson's team; and, if I miss that, there's no telling when I may have another chance of meeting the traders, and just now a good deal hangs on that."

Faith Charton made no reply. The vision of her brother's nearly empty packs rose before her; and, as she thought of their own poverty, she felt in her heart that a good deal did hang upon his meeting the traders.

Jem Charton, or "Charty Jem,"—for so the settlers familiarly called him,—had been one of the first to leave the States, and seek a home in what was then termed "the Far West." He built a cabin in Red Chalk,—a resting place for Faith and Mark; but he was seldom there. Charty Jem became a peddler; and not only did his wares meet with a ready sale in Red Chalk, but throughout the country he was well and favorably known, and the eccentric though kind-hearted old man ever met a welcome at the settler's fireside. Charty Jem had seen more than sixty winters, and his long, white hair, and small, bent figure, gave him the appearance of an older man; but he was active for his years, and met the hardships of his roving life with an indifference which made men wonder.

As Faith and Charty Jem sat down to their simple supper, Mark arose from the corner where he had been crouching, and stealthily approached the table.

"Come here, Mark," said his brother, coaxingly; but the idiot snatched up, with greedy violence, a portion of food, and went back gibbering to the fire.

"Mark, the Wild-head," as the people in Red Chalk called him, was Charty Jem's twin brother. He was strikingly like Charty in face and figure,—an old, white-headed man; but the light of reason had long ago died out in his eyes, and they looked forth with a strange, idiotic stare. Mark was harmless; every one knew him, and no one feared him. Sometimes, he would go from Red Chalk,—whither, no one knew,—and, after an absence of many days, return to his home, ragged, half famished, and weeping like a child. For a long time, the pedler and his sister strove against these wandering spells; but the idiot's cunning rendered their efforts useless, and they learned at last to feel but a dim anxiety during his absence, and to look upon his return as sure.

Faith Charton was younger than her brothers, but her brow was furrowed, and her step slow. Sorrow had outsped Time to make her old, and troubles had clustered round her faster than years. Yet in all this Faith murmured not, but cheerfully, untiringly, performed her duties. She lived but for her brothers; Charty Jem and Mark crowded all else out of her world, and in their love her labors met a full reward. The light of peace shone clear and unwaning upon the patient, toiling woman's path. Unselfish love had kindled it; it likewise kept it alive.

"Charty, you know Mark always jabbers and raves more when one of his wandering spells is coming on him; and listen now! Heaven grant it may not be in his crazy head to set out on such a night as this;" and Faith Charton looked anxiously on Mark.

"No, no, Faith, that he won't. Mark loves a warm corner too well to rush out in the wind and rain. Watch him right close, though," continued the pedler, as Mark looked up with a cunning leer, "and I will be back in a day or two. Don't worry about me, Faith; I'll soon get down to Grayson's. God bless you! take care of the poor Wild-head, and good-bye;" and the cabin door closed after Charty Jem.

"Dear Will, don't go!"

"I must see Charty Jem safely over the Ford. Why, Kate, it were a shame to let so old a man cross that swollen stream alone."

Kate Lee made no answer, but snatching up a candle, followed her husband and Charty Jem to the door. It was a fierce wild night. The heavens were black with storm-clouds, and the winds moaned fearfully in the distant woods. Mingled with its wailings came a hoarse, murmuring sound, as of gushing waters. Kate Lee heard it, and cast an anxious glance upon her husband.

"I understand that look, my Kate," said he, gently.—"You never fear; although the waters foam and gurgle ever so madly, I do not dread to cross them, and I will not long be absent." Lee spoke cheerfully, and his words seemed to reassure his young wife; for, as he smoothed back her sunny curls, and pressed a kiss upon her white brow, she smiled brightly.

"Have you no kind word for Charty Jem? Won't you wish him a safe tramp through the woods to-night?" asked the old man, who had hitherto remained silent.

"God bless you, and protect you, good Charty!" earnestly exclaimed Kate Lee, as she clasped the pedler's rough hand.

"May his blessing rest upon you!" solemnly returned Charty Jem; and then, shouldering his pack, he continued, "Don't spoil your bright eyes with tears, sweet lady, for, in less time than you look for, I will send Will Lee back to you, safe and sound."

The door closed, and Kate Lee was alone. Hastening to the quiet of her room, she threw herself on her knees by the cradle, in which lay a fair little sleeper. With hand pressed upon his tiny arm, she implored a blessing upon her noble young husband. Pray on, in thy loveliness sweet Kate Lee! Oh, pray for light and strength from above, for, even now, a dark and blotted page in thy life-book is to be turned.

"If you would listen to me, Charty, you would stay in Red Chalk till morning. This will be one of the wildest nights that ever darkened earth."

"You tell me the same tale Faith did, not an hour ago. But 'tis no use, Lee; I tell you I must go;" and then, as they struggled on against the wind, the pedler explained to his companion the reason of his seemingly strange determination.

"I mind nothing but crossing the bridge, Will, and I can't deny but that I will need your cool young head and steady hand there."

"You are heartily welcome to them!" came the cordial answer; and for a while the two strode on in silence.

"What a pretty little wife you have, Will! I always think, when I see her, that Heaven has sent you one of its sweet angels to brighten your cabin for you."

Lee smiled at the old man's sudden remark. "You are right, Charty; Kate is everything to me, and I only grieve that I cannot place her in a better home."

"What made you bring that fair young blossom to this rough country, anyway, Lee? Why did you leave the States?"

"Friends, fortune, all, was averse to me there," sadly replied the young man, "and I persuaded my sweet Kate to leave her New England home, and try with me a life in these western wilds."

Never may you and your pretty Kate have cause to rue it;" and Charty Jem pressed closer to Lee, as they hurried over the clearings.

Will Lee was tall, and finely formed; and his coarse dress could not conceal the manly grace which was visible in every movement. A handsomer or franker face not a man in the settlement possessed, and few could boast a nobler heart or more energetic spirit. Two years had gone by since Lee and his fair Kate sought a home in Red Chalk. In that time, the enterprising young emigrant had done much toward retrieving his fortunes, and at the present period, owned a broad tract of land, a pleasant home, and stood high amongst his fellow-settlers.

The waters had not swept away the crossing at the Ford, but they were surging up high against it, and the strong logs trembled with their angry violence. Lee grasped the old pedler's hand, and slowly and cautiously the two crossed the dangerous bridge. Will Lee was silent. He knew his life was in danger, and he thought of Kate; but Charty Jem murmured bitterly against the spring freshets. Ere they reached the White Oak, in the entrance of the woods, there was a crash amongst the thick brush, a savage growl, and then a panther, half grown, but fierce and bold with hunger, sprung into the path. Quickly and heavily Lee struck the animal, and, as though stunned and frightened with the blow, it suddenly slunk away.

"That painter is young, Lee, or it would not have been scared so easily," said the pedler, with a laugh; "but that blow you gave it will keep it cross and wakeful all night; so lend me your knife, boy, for I forgot my pistols at your cabin, and I do not care to go through here unarmed."

"Willingly," returned Lee, drawing from his jacket breast a sheathed hunting-knife: "take it, Charty, and you can bring it to me when you are again in Red Chalk."

The old man took the knife, and, murmuring a blessing upon his young protector, prepared to enter the wood. Will Lee would have gone with him to the next clearing; but the pedler was obstinate, and would not hear of it.

"Go back to the pretty trembler who watches for you there," he said, waving his hand toward Red Chalk; "I shall soon get down to Grayson's." And they parted —the pedler, with rapid step, hurrying through the wood whilst Will Lee, crossing again the swollen Ford, was soon upon the clearing.

Kate Lee was very happy when her husband returned. The presentiment of evil which had darkened her heart vanished in his presence. The young couple loved each other too well to know aught but sunshine when together; and, as they sat side by side in their humble home, they talked happily of the future.

Faith Charton was alone that night. Mark had rushed forth, she knew not whither; and, as she sat hearkening to the moaning, shrieking wind, the woeful vision of Charty seemed to rise before her, helplessly struggling in the swollen waters of the Ford. Faith could not sleep; and, though the few glimmering lights of Red Chalk had died out, she yet kept her sad, lonely vigil by the cabin fire.

CHAPTER II.

Two days of stormy weather, lowering clouds, and sweeping winds went by; and then a spring morning,—fair, rosy, and joyous, lit up the dark old woods, brightened the wide clearings, and smiled upon Red Chalk. About sunset, Faith Charton came to Lee's cabin in trouble. She had seen Grayson that morning, but he could tell her nothing of Charty; the pedler had never been at his house, and the team had set out on the night appointed without him.

"Charty met his death in the woods that dreadful night, I know," sobbed Faith; "nothing but that could have kept him from going to Grayson's, he was so set on meeting the traders."

Something unpleasant seemed to cross Lee's mind; a shade of sadness stole over his fine face, and springing from his seat, he walked hastily to and fro. The young man's troubled looks struck Faith Charton; she watched him keenly, and when her eyes for a moment glancing from him fell upon objects strangely familiar, a horrid suspicion thrilled her, and, urged by its might, she cried out:

"In mercy's name, why have you murdered my brother?"

Lee turned round angrily; but when he met the gaze of wild blue eyes, dim, and strained with weeping and misery, he answered gently.

"Poor Faith! this great trouble has almost crazed you."

"William Lee, you told me with your own lips that you were the last person with Charty that night. I see his pack beneath your settle; upon your shelf his pistols; that sharpened stick is stained with blood; there is a red spot upon your leggins; blood! my brother's blood! Your face grew troubled and dark when I spoke of him.—Young man, you are a murderer!"

"It is well you are a woman," sternly answered Lee; "were you not, even your distress should be no excuse for your casting so foul a charge upon me. I do indeed fear that your brother is dead, Faith Charton, but I am innocent of his blood. Of the things you have spoken, I can give you a clear account. My face may well look troubled, for my heart bitterly reproaches me that I left that old man alone in those dark woods; would that I had not yielded to his obstinacy, but gone with him to the next clearing."

Faith Charton made no answer; she laid her head upon the table, and wept violently. Kate Lee, pale and trembling, clung to her husband, and for a little while there was silence in the cabin. Suddenly the sound of distant footsteps, and many voices, fell upon Lee's ear; as he listened, it became more distinct. Nearer and nearer it came; and the young man knew it was his name the stern voices uttered, and to his cabin those quick feet were hurrying. William Lee opened the door, he was a brave man, and his heart was conscious of no ill, so he calmly confronted the crowd.

They were hardy, determined-looking men; and, when the door was flung open, steadily pushed in, until the room was almost filled. A fearful burden they bore; ghastly, cut, and as though dripping with water; his long, white hair falling wildly over his ashen face, was the form of Faith Charton's brother; and she, kneeling beside him, screamed out in agony.

"My Charty! my poor, murdered Charty!"

As Will Lee looked upon the pedler, he shuddered violently.

"Ah, William Lee, do you tremble at your own work?" said a gray-haired man, firmly, but not ungently, laying his hand upon Lee's arm.

"My work! what mean you, Squire Jones?"

"He means you are a murderer, and poor Charty Jem your victim," said a gruff voice from the crowd.

A wild shriek followed these words; and Kate Lee, who had hitherto sat white, motionless as a statue, fell from her chair in a heavy, deathlike swoon.

"Wretch! you have murdered my Kate," and Lee bent anxiously over his wife, forgetting in his love for her his own jeopardy.

Kate Lee soon returned to consciousness, but her lovely eyes opened with a shudder, and she sank down upon the low settle with a heavy sigh. Lee, irritated by the stern looks and reproaches of his neighbors, and maddened by the dreadful charge brought against him, refused to listen to anything, and fiercely ordered the men from his house.

At a whisper from Squire Jones, Kate Lee approached her husband, and gently laid her hand upon his.

"My husband," she murmured, and her voice was sadly sweet; "for my sake, for your own, and for our child's, hear what these men have to say."

The whisper and imploring look of his lovely wife fell as a soothing spell upon Lee, and quietly turning to the magistrate, he signified his readiness to hear.

And the statement was briefly made. Some boys had found the murdered man, not an hour before, in a lonely hollow in the woods which skirted Red Chalk. The throat and neck of the body were much cut, and the face swollen and bruised; it lay close by the water's edge, and this position, and the state of the clothes, gave no one reason to doubt but that it had been cast in the Ford some two or three days previous, and the wild, foaming stream had not long dashed it upon the bank. The settlers, whom the children hastily summoned, believed the murdered man to be Charty Jem. As they raised him from the ground, a hunting knife, half hidden by the long grass, met their eyes; and upon this blood-stained handle the frightened settlers read, in the yellow, sunset light, the name of William Lee! When they brought the body to Red Chalk, many persons there remembered seeing William Lee and Charty Jem walk out in the direction of the woods, the last night the pedler was in the settlement. None would have dreamed of fastening the murder upon Lee, had not this circumstance, and the finding of the knife, spoken strongly against him.

"Hear me, now!" exclaimed Faith Charton, the magistrate ceased speaking, "and may I be forgiven if I do Lee wrong; I bear no malice against him, yet I truly believe him to be my brother's murderer;" and then rapidly and earnestly she spoke of the circumstances which had awakened her suspicions, and ended by again declaring her conviction that Charty Jem had lost his life by the hands of Lee.

There were again murmers in the crowd, but Lee seemed not to hear them; and when the magistrate proceeded to arrest him, he hastily pushed him aside, and strode to the body of Charty Jem. Placing his hand upon the brow of the murdered pedler, and raising his eyes to Heaven, William Lee, in a clear, firm voice, solemnly declared his innocence. His earnest manner and dauntless bearing, filled the hearts of many with the conviction he might not be guilty. One by one, slowly and sadly, the settlers left the cabin, and soon all was silent there.

When Squire Jones learned that Mark Charton had again set out on one of his wild, unknown tramps, he persuaded his wretched sister not to return to her lonely cabin, but to accompany him to his home; and thither Faith Charton went, crying bitterly, for her grief was very great.

The two men who had been left to guard Lee, talked lowly by the kitchen fire; and the young man and his stricken-hearted wife were alone. A mighty sorrow clouded Kate's sky; and, with hands pressed upon her brow, the miserable young creature crouched in a corner of the room. Lee sat stern and moody, brooding over his fearful situation, but Kate's moans pierced his heart. Bending over her, he took her hand. Kate raised her head, and with streaming eyes, gazed anxiously upon her husband. It was a long, searching look, full of inquiry, love, and tenderness; but there was much of misery in it, and the young man turned away and groaned. Kate Lee laid her head upon her husband's shoulder, and he wildly pressed her to his heart.

"Was it for this, my bird," he asked mournfully, as he smoothed back her sunny tresses, and gazed into her azure eyes; "was it for this I won you from the home-nest? Was it only that your name should be linked with a so-called murderer's; a man who must die a felon's death?"

Kate Lee shuddered at these fearful words; but as she spoke of hope, and whispered of her firm faith in his innocence, her husband felt a sweet calm steal over him. The moonbeams cast a halo of light around Kate Lee's fair brow; and whilst gazing upon her tearful beauty, and listened to her words of affection, William Lee recalled Charty Jem's saying, and felt that "one of Heaven's sweet angels" indeed dwelt within him.

Many hearts in Red Chalk were troubled for Will Lee; he was beloved by his rough neighbors, and they were grieved that this fearful charge should have fallen on him. In those early days, and in that then untamed country, justice was dealt in a summary manner, and with little of the formula now so essential to its meting out. Whatsoever the settlers found to do, that did they with all their might; and the day following the discovery of the pedler's body, Lee's trial commenced in Red Chalk.

It was brought against Lee that he had been the last person seen with Charty Jem the night he left the settlement, and that it was his knife, covered with blood, which lay near the old man. His clothes were free from mark; upon his leg only was a spot, small, 'tis true, but ruddy and crimson enough to show that it was blood.—The pedler's pack pushed under the settle, his heavily-mounted old pistols upon the rude shelf, how came these in Lee's cabin, if not by foul means? A heavy, sharp stick, behind the kitchen-door, was redly stained.—Around the pack of Lee's child hung a silver toy, which Faith Charton affirmed to have been in her brother's pack the evening he left her. The troubled looks and actions of Lee, when the pedler's death was suggested by Faith, were strongly dwelt upon; and darkly the cloud frowned over him, whilst friends true and earnest, as they listened to these things, shuddered to find their trust in him weakening.

Firmly and boldly Lee met these charges. Explaining the cause of his walk with the pedler, he spoke of the incident of the panther, as not only accounting for his lending his knife to the old man, but likewise for the stain upon the stick, which, with the spots upon the leggins, had before been unobserved by him. William Lee fearlessly declared that the presence of the pedler's pack and pistols in his cabin had been unnoticed till too late to return them; they had been forgotten by Charty Jem; and the pack, he supposed the more readily, as he generally carried two, and feeling the weight of one upon his shoulders, might not so soon miss the other. The silver toy, Lee declared he had purchased for his child from the pedler, the last afternoon he was in Red Chalk. "Faith Charton has urged my anxious looks," continued the young man, "as being an evidence of guilt. I shall not deny when she spoke of her fears for her brother I shared them. I did not dream of his being murdered; but I thought of the fierce animal I had wounded before we parted, and I keenly blamed myself for leaving the old man to go through those dark woods with none to defend him should it again spring forth; it was this reflection which troubled me, when Faith Charton spoke of her brother. One question, and I have done. Were I guilty of this poor man's murder, think you would I so carelessly leave about the evidences of my guilt, as you are pleased to term them? I beg you to consider this. Who has done this fearful deed, I know not; but I solemnly and most truly declare myself innocent!" and folding his arms, Lee took his seat.

Lee's defence fell upon the ears of the settlers as "an idle tale, cunningly devised." They believed him to be the murderer; and although strenuous exertions were made in his favor, and many hearts were moved for him, yet convicted by strong circumstantial evidence, William Lee was declared guilty! No personal feeling actuated this decision against Lee, but justice seemed to demand his life; and it was to the people of Red Chalk as though the blood of the murdered pedler cried out for reparation.

"I pity you, William Lee, and your sweet young wife; and I forgive you, although you had no pity on my poor brother!" and covering her eyes with her linsey apron, Faith Charton went back to her lonely cabin, still lonely, for "Mark, the Wild-head," was yet away.

CHAPTER III.

The day upon which Lee's sentence was to be pronounced, came. The schoolhouse, the only public building in Red Chalk was crowded. Men, women and children, drawn by feelings of intense interest, flocked there. Pale, though firm and collected, William Lee sat upon a low bench, whilst his young wife, sorrow shading her fair face, clung closely to him. A sound of quick hurrying feet, a wild hallo at the schoolhouse door, and the next instant, Charty Jem dashed in amongst the crowd. Had the dead returned to life? or spirits walk the earth as in days of old? The murdered pedler stood before the settlers of Red Chalk, pale, and anxious-looking, but his countenance bore not the ghastly seal of death! Even those who had gazed upon what to them had seemed the blood stained and lifeless body of Charty Jem, felt that he was in lead in their midst, as little of a spirit as any present. A wondering hush, and then a shout, free, heart-sent, and joyous, rang through the school-house; every one joined in it, and the sound echoed far back from the distant woods.

"What ails ye settlers?" cried the pedler, in a loud, stern voice; "has all Red Chalk gone crazy? When I opened my cabin door, Faith screamed, and ran from me, as though I had been out of earth, and when she came a little to her senses, she told me a strange story of Lee being taken up for my murder, and managed to let me know that even as she then spoke, ye had met to sentence him. Who ever said that I was murdered? Who has been foul-hearted enough to tell so black a lie on Will Lee? Don't look so wildly on me, boy! thank God, I have come in time to save ye," and Charty Jem approached the young man.

A glance at Kate, the pedler, and the crowd around, and William Lee saw no more. The mighty workings of the spirit were too much for the flesh, and the strong man swooned away. When William Lee opened his eyes, the radient, tearful face of Kate was bending over him, rejoicing friends were near, and Charty Jem stood by his side.

Briefly, yet fully, matters were explained to the pedler, and when the wonderful likeness which the murdered man had borne to himself, was touched upon, his brow grew darker, and sadder, and refusing to answer any questions, he sprang from his seat, and demanded to see the body.

"No, Charty, that cannot be," said Squire Jones, "it has been buried these three days, and you surely would not tear it from the grave."

"If it had been buried so many weeks, as you say days, Squire," doggedly returned Charty Jem, "I would not be turned from seeing it. Don't cross me, none of ye; in this I must see the man. A dreadful fear is in my mind, and I cannot rest till it is quieted."

Opposition was idle; the pedler met it with obstinacy. "I will tell ye nothing until I have seen the body, nor shall a morsel pass my lips before. I will open the grave myself."

Then the excited old man went forth, but not alone; an awe-stricken and silent crowd followed him from the school house to a new-made grave, at the edge of the woods which skirted Red Chalk.

The settlers paused in their fearful task: the rough pine box was laid upon the green earth, and there, where the very air seemed joyous with bird-carols,—where the warm sun threw his fairest light, the gastly face of the dead was uncovered. The earnest, searching gaze, with which Charty Jem approached the body, gave place, as he looked upon it, to one of agony, and turning away, he joined in Faith's exceedingly bitter cry.—

"Mark! Mark! Alas, my brother!"

A sudden light came with these words, to the mind of the settlers, and wondering within themselves, that it had not dawned upon them before, they gazed upon the body of Mark Charton with anxious curiosity. The twin brothers were strangely alike, and although the features of the dead man were marked and livid, the resemblance existed to a remarkable degree.

"When you told me of these things in yon school house, I felt afraid in my heart, that I should find Mark here. Sure was I, that I should see his face when the box was burst open." And Charty Jem sat down and wept. "Cover Mark up," said he, at last, without raising his head; "hide him from me; I cannot bear to look upon him again. I am satisfied now, but it is a terrible satisfaction."

Then back to earth went earth, and, mingled with the pedler's and Faith Charton's sobs, came the sound of heavy-falling clods. For some minutes there was a hush—and then, making a mighty effort to choke down his grief, the old pedler spoke.

"Men of Red Chalk," he said solemnly, "the stain of innocent blood has well-nigh been on your skirts. You have most wickedly wronged Will Lee; all that he has told you, is true, but you would not believe him, and now listen to me. I borrowed Will's knife after we met the painter, for I had forgotten my pistols at his cabin, and I did not care about meeting that fierce thing unarmed.—I was just in the thicket of the woods, when something dark jumped right out against me, from the bush. I thought, at first, of the painter, but in a moment I found it was a man, and by his jabbering and raving, I knew him to be Mark. He was crazier than I had ever saw him before, and when I tried to coax him back to the cabin, he broke from me with a loud yell, and ran along the path a little piece. Dark as it was, I thought I knew every twist and turn of the wood and though it would take from my time, I determined to catch Mark and take him back to Faith. I knew she would worry terribly at his being out that night, and I did'nt like to think of it myself. But Mark was stark mad; he fought with me keenly, and when I still kept a hold upon him, he tried to choke me. I had to let him go, or I would have been a dead man; then he dashed from me, and went, I know not where. I could only hear his yells getting weaker, and farther off. I found I had dropped Lee's knife in trying to catch Mark, and I hunted for it a long time, but there was no finding it. I went on my way with no easy heart: I was afraid Mark might grope across the knife, and as Faith and I never let him have anything sharp, even when he was quiet, I was troubled to think he should get the like when he was so raving crazy.—More than once, I felt like starting again after Mark; but then I thought as he was out on one of his "traveling spells," there would be no catching him, and that in his own time, he would come back again, to the cabin. I begin to think, too, that my taking hold of him in the woods, all of a sudden, had scared him, and that was the reason he was so furious; and, praying in my heart, the poor Wild-head might not come across Lee's knife, I pushed on. I had been so taken up with my troubles about Mark, that I lost the path, without knowing it, and when I came out of the woods, instead of being at Grayson's, I was at a road three miles above it. I knew the place, and as I could not then go back, I tramped on to the first cabin; there I got a horse, and by daybreak was on my way to meet the traders. I had to stay away longer than I wanted, from Red Chalk, for I had a strange fear all was not right, but I left as soon as I could. I knew nothing,—I heard nothing of this miserable business until I opened my own cabin-door, settlers! You know the rest; I thank God I have come back in time to save Will Lee's young life. I know now, that Mark found that knife, and in his craziness cut himself, until, madder than ever, by pain, he must have jumped or fallen into the water. Again I declare to you, men of Red Chalk, that all that Will Lee has told you, is true, and ye have cruelly belied him."—Then, as his eyes fell on Mark's grave, Charty Jem covered his face and groaned heavily.

Faith Charton rushed forth from the settlers, and flung herself at Lee's feet,—"Forgive me, forgive me, young man!" she sobbed, "and only remember, I have wronged you unknowingly. I had no fears for Mark; he was often away, but I was sure something dreadful had kept Charty from meeting Grayson, and in my wild sorrow, I charged you with his murder. Can you forgive me?"

"Get up, Faith!" said William Lee, kindly; do not kneel to me. Freely, from my heart I forgive you all you ever said in this matter. I have borne no anger against you,—in my sorest peril have I pitied you, for I know your trouble was very great."

Faith Charton dashed the tears from her eyes, and turning a look, full of gratitude, upon Lee, went slowly down the little path which led to her cabin, followed by Charty Jem. The hardy settlers crowded round William Lee, and as they cordially wrung his hand, and with tears of manly joy proffered their congratulations, he felt that the heavy cloud, which had loomed so darkly over him, had not chilled their esteem and affection.

The people of Red Chalk felt that they had cruelly wronged William Lee. Earnestly they strove to make amends, not by mere "lip service," but by such acts as testified most fully to him the return of their faith and trust in him, deepened by sincere repentance that it had ever wavered. And Lee acted nobly,—loftily. He buried in the past the memory of his wrongs, and the monument he raised over them, was fair and beautiful, even a generous and full forgiveness. Those hand-maidens of destiny, called by men circumstances, had indeed woven round Lee a dark and fearful web, but he was not long to struggle in it; the strong arm of the Deliverer burst the meshes, and set him free. As touching the remarkable likeness between Mark and Charty Jem, the people in Red Chalk had often said:—

"If it had not been for the crazy glow in one's eyes, and the light of sense in the other's no human being could have told them apart, so like were they."

And when we recall this fact, we may, perhaps, the more easily forgive the mistake of the settlers—a mistake which came near hurrying an innocent man into eternity.

Gleeful as she was before these days of sorrow, Kate Lee never was again; yet sunshine was her after portion, and "loving and beloved," she lived serenely and happily.

When Faith Charton died, her brother went to live with the Lees. The kind attentions of William and Kate Lee brightened the last years of Charty Jem, and their affection soothed his dying pillow.

Many years have gone by since then, and the actors in those scenes now sleep in dust. The cabin of William Lee has long since fallen into ruins, but he and his beloved Kate rejoice in "a mansion not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." The spirit of emigration has strode on with giant power, and Red Chalk has long been lost, in the heart of a great and wide city. The descendants of the Lees yet live there, and treasured amongst them, as a sacred family legend, even to this day, is the story of Charty Jem, the western pedler.

AWFUL CATASTROPHE.—At Alton Bay, Mr. Israel Sawyer, with his wife and four children, lived in the second story of an old unoccupied store. On Tuesday morning, about three o'clock, Mr. Sawyer being absent, Mrs. S. was awakened by an alarm of fire, when she found the building enveloped in flames.—She took her youngest child, a year old, who was in bed with her, and, running to a window, threw it out, and the little thing was caught and saved from injury by some men assembled below. Mrs. Sawyer then went to another room where her three other children were asleep, to rescue them, but she was seen no more. With her three daughters, from three to eight years of age, she perished in the flames—a martyr to a mother's heroic devotion to her children.—Concord N. H., Patriot.

☞ We learn from the Conneaut Reporter that the body of a man was found on the beach of the lake, in Springfield, Pa., on Sunday the 17th inst. He was apparently about 20 years of age; had on striped shirt, striped cassimere pants, shoes, black cotton vest, when found. His right arm was marked with the initials "E. C. F."—supposed to be the body of a sailor—and from appearance had been in the water some time.

☞ The seven wonders of the world are: The Colossus of Rhodes, the Temple of Diana, which took 220 years to build, the sepulcher of Mausolus, King of Caria, the Olympian Jupiter of Phidias, the walls of Babylon, 60 miles round; the Pyramids of Egypt, and the Palace of Cyrus, King of the Medes, the stones of which were ornamented with gold.

LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

Arrival of the Georgia—$2,300,000 in Gold.

The United States Mail steamship Georgia, Lieut. Wm. Mitchell, Commander, arrived at New York on Friday evening, with the California mails to Oct. 1, bringing 300 passengers, and $2,000,000 of gold on freight, and $300,000 in the hands of passengers. The Georgia left Aspinwall at four o'clock on the morning of the 20th, and arrived at Kingston, Jamaica, at 2 o'clock, A. M., 22d, making the run in 46 hours. She left Kingston at 10 A. M. 23d, and arrived here at 10 P. M. 29th.

The health on the Isthmus is good; very few cases of fever, and no cholera.

A military force has been organized under the direction of Gen. Paez, which is of great benefit to passengers crossing the Isthmus. The natives are not allowed to carry arms of any description. Gen. Paez and his officers deserve great credit for their vigilance and promptness in suppressing murders and robberies.

The Panama Railroad is in good order, and the cars run twice a day to Barbacos.

Died on the passage, and buried at sea, James Blakley, aged 46, passenger; Francis Hunt, 4th assistant engineer, aged 37.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.—In speaking of mining, the Placer Herald says:—We learn that a number of mining companies on the Placer side of the Middle Fork are doing extremely well, and some of them making big strikes. The submarine Company, numbering thirteen men, were averaging over $3.000 per day at last accounts, and have reached as high as $4,000 in one day. The Macatee Company numbers three men, and is averging $3,000 per week.

We understand that a number of the Franklin Mining Company at French Gulch, Shasta county, has written to a friend in the city, that some lucky miners recently dug a piece of gold weighing fifteen pounds and three ounces there recently, and that on the same day a lump of pure gold weighing sixteen ounces, was dug at the same place.

From the most reliable source we learn that at White Rock, on Feather river, within the past ten days, the White Rock Company, numbering twenty members, have taken out of a coffer dam $22,000; the Smith Company, numbering nine members, $14-000; and the Jones Company, numbering five members, during the past four weeks, $30,000. All the miners are reported as doing well.—Marysville Herald.

The San Francisco Union says there is now on exhibition at the banking house of Mills, Townsend & Co., a lump of gold recently taken out at Downieville, which is one of the largest and handsomest ever found in California. This splendid specimen is nearly pure, and weighs two hundred and four ounces and three dollars. The same firm have also another lump perfectly pure, which weighs $300,—dug near the same spot as the above.

The accounts from every portion of the mining region are cheering. In none of the river diggings do we hear complaints of failure as in 1849. The same bars that are now being flumed were then worked by thousands—damming them, and in most cases without success. The change would seem to be necessarily owing to the present improved methods of working.

AUSTRALIAN GOLD.—A beautiful lump of Australian gold was exhibited to us yesterday. It was received lately by one of our shipping houses. A large trade is springing up between California and Australia and the number of persons who are leaving here to try their fortunes in the mines of the latter, is very large. San Francisco Herald.

SERIOUS DISTURBANCES IN CALAVERAS.—Our paper to-day, says the Calaveras Chronicle, contains little else than a series of ourages, murders, executions, robberies, &c. Seldom a week passes that important mining or other intelligence is not crowded out to make room for items coming under either of these captions.

The Chronicle details at length the numerous outrages committed by the Spanish American population in that country. The following account of horse theft, and the summary execution of the thieves by the people, we take from that paper:—

Messrs. Lloyd and Vader last Saturday missed their animals, and believing them to be stolen, immediately started in search of the thieves. They went directly to Jackson, where they gave a description of their horses, and learned that they had been seen in the possession of two Mexicans going towards Clinton. They rode to Clinton, and informed several of the citizens in regard to the animals, requesting them to be on the lookout. On Monday a Mexican arrived in the town, and offered an animal for sale, which he said he had bought at a short distance, and asked $300 for it. The gentlemen supposing it to be one of those at Ione Valley, told him he didn't wish to buy, but he had one he would exchange, and give a fair "to boot," if he would bring it in. Shortly after the Mexican arrived in town upon the animal he had offered for sale, and it was immediately recognized to be one of those stolen. He was seized and a party went in search of his accomplice, whom they found hid in the shrubbery with the other horse. They were both taken to Jackson, and the owners of the animals sent for.—The deputy sheriff took charge of the prisoners, and when the owners arrived from Ione Valley, he deputized them to conduct the thieves to Moquelumne hill. They bound the captives to their horses, and instead of taking the road to the hill, went full gallop to Ione Valley. At the latter place the citizens assembled in large numbers on Wednesday, and decreed that the prisoners should expiate their offence by hanging.

This sentence was carried into execution on Wednesday evening. The unfortunate Mexicans, whose names are Jesus Brisano and Antonia Duartes, manifested a degree of recklessness and apparent unconcern while upon the gallows, worthy a more honorable fate. Their last breath was spent in curses upon the Americans, and deriding their tardiness and experience in consumating their execution.

The Chronicle gives the following particulars of a dastardly outrage committed by a Chilean on a Chinaman:

A claim which was being worked by a company of Chinese, at Willow Bar, was encroached upon by a party of Chileans, who were remonstrated with by the former. The latter paid no attention to the expostulations of the Chinese, and they laid their grievances before the American miners to settle. The decision being against the Chileans, they thirsted for revenge, which one of them consummated in a most vicious manner. While one of the Chinese was cooking at the foot of the abrupt mountain which borders the river at this point, a Chilean ascended to its top, and pushed a ponderous rock, weighing two or three hundred pounds, so that it rolled in the direction of the unsuspecting Chinaman. His attention being called by a comrade to the avalanche, he fled to avoid it; and supposing himself out of danger, remained at a distance from its direct course. Contrary to his expectation, the stone split in two, one of the pieces striking with tremendous force the leg of the unfortunate Chinaman, fracturing it in such a manner that it was amputated by Drs. Teal, Lind and Yarrington,

In consequence of this outrage, the Americans determined to expel the Chileans from the Willow Bar. Accordingly, the Chronicle says, says some twelve of them went to the encampment of the latter, but were met by some twenty or thirty of the aggressors, who were armed with knives, cutlasses, &c. They demanded the person who had rolled the rock down the hill, and were told he was there, but they were not able to take him. The Americans having mostly come unarmed, did not feel prepared to attack so formidable a force, and returned for their guns, after having given the Chileans one hour, either to hand over their heartless comrade, or leave the camp. When the Americans returned, they found that their antagonist had chosen the latter course.—San Francisco Herald.

ANOTHER ATROCIOUS MURDER.—A most atrocious murder was committed in this city on the 21st of September, before daylight. The victim was Dr. McGreger, a native of Scotland, aged 65 years. He was found dead in an alley way, known as Hospital street, which leads to a quarter of our city inhabited by Mexicans and other Spanish American foreigners. He had received but one wound, which was in the right breast, and was apparently inflicted by a long and sharp dirk knife. A pen knife with the blade open, was found in his right hand, the blade directed towards the wound, and having some blood on it. The wound, however, was probed, and found to be an inch deeper than the blade of the pen knife; and, therefore, the general opinion is, that the pen-knife was placed in his hand by the assassin, after the murder was committed.—Sonora Herald.

INDIAN DIFFICULTIES.

UREKA, September 7, 1852.

To his Excellency, JOHN BIGLER, Governor of the State of California:—

Dear Sir:—A few weeks since a party of about fifteen men under command of Charles McDermit the Sheriff of this county, started out for the purpose of affording aid and succor to the emigration and to protect them against the attacks of the Indians in the north-eastern section of this county.

On their way to the foot of Sierra Nevada, about one hundred and twenty miles from that place, they fell in with a pack train consisting of nine men, eight of whom were well armed, and who they thought would come through with safety, as there was a large wagon train in charge of two of McDermit's party a day or two ahead of them. They continued their journey for the purpose of affording assistance to a number of families who were said to be in the rear. Not long after leaving these men, they were attacked by the Indians, and eight out of the nine were killed. The man who escaped succeeded in joining the wagon train ahead of him, one night before they reached this place. McDermit left two or three men with each train be passed to serve as guides and to afford such protection as lay within their power.

As soon as we were informed of the murder of the eight men alluded to, the citizens fitted out an expedition consisting of thirty-two men, including eight Shasto Indians, under the command of Capt. Ben Wright.

Yesterday McDermit returned and brought us intelligence of a sad and alarming character. Thomas H. Coates, Esq., late of the Assembly of California, Mr. Long and Mr. Owensby, two of our citizens, who had been left by McDermit, in charge of a train of wagons, and an immigrant belonging to the train, named Felix Martin, were all murdered while about a mile in advance of the train. The first intimation the main body of emigrants had of their death was a shower of arrows from the Indians, just as they arrived at the scence of murder.—They immediately corrolled their stock, placed themselves in a defensive attitude, and succeeded in beating off the Indians for a day and a half, during which time they were without water. At this juncture Capt. Wright and his party made their appearance, and after reconnoitering, made a vigorous charge upon a body of two hundred and fifty Indians and drove them into a lake, killing about thirty.—They fought in water over waist deep. Whenever they fired into a canoe, the Indians—men, women and children—jumped into the lake, and they think a number must have been drowned. In this engagement, Capt. Wright and his party, including his Indians, acted with distinguished courage, and are entitled to the highest praise. He made a requisition upon us for provisions, ammunition and men, which was promptly responded to. A wagon load of provisions left here yesterday—fifteen or twenty men will leave here to day.

Up to this time we have contributed $827 in money, besides furnishing provisions and mules, and not including the outfit of McDermit and his party.

Eleven men whose names are unknown, have been buried by McDermit and Wright, and from the quantity of apparel belonging to females and children, found in possession of the Indians, we are seriously apprehensive that many other persons have been killed.

The Indians living on the head waters of the Sacramento river, and those living between Goose lake and the Dallas on the Columbia river, seem to be concentrating about Goose lake, in this county, on the emigrant trail, for the purpose of murder and plunder.

Can you do nothing for the innocent victims of Indian barbarity? Is our country a "terra incognita," entitled to no consideration—no protection, whether from either State or general government? Shasta Courier.

MR. WEBSTER'S WILL.—Mr Webster made his will only a few days since, signing it on Thursday week. It was drawn up under his direction by George T. Curtis, Esq. It gives the Marshfield property to the widow during her lifetime, and then transfers it to Fletcher Webster—the only living child of the deceased statesman—whose son Daniel —an unusually intelligent and manly lad of about twelve years—succeeds to the inheritance. Mr. Webster's grand children by his daughter, Mrs. Appleton, are already very wealthy, so that no injustice is done to them in this bequest. He did not foget his numerous friends and relatives, but left to very many of them little marks of his favor, and memorials of the dead. James W. Page, R. H. Blatchford, and Fletcher Webster are the Executors, and Mrs. Webster Executrix. Edward Curtis and Peter Harvey, Esqs., are Trustees on behalf of the widow.

We should very much like to know for what so "celebrated" is he?—Buff. Com.

"We believe that it was the Advertiser and not the American, who spoke of Mr. Magee as celebrated—we do not shrink the question. Mr. Magee is celebrated for his patriotic career before he landed in America. He is celebrated as an Irish historian of the first order? He is celebrated for having delivered lectures upon Irishmen in America, which prove him a man of great research, and one desirous of elevating the position of his countrymen.—He is celebrated for several of his works. He is celebrated for editing the most successful, and the most truly national Irish paper in these States.—He is celebrated as a fine writer, a good scholar, and a splendid specimen of and Irishman. Have we spoken unadvisedly?"

HORRIBLE.—We read in the Galena, (Ill.) Advocate a report of a horrible crime committed in that vicinity. The father and mother of a family died last spring. Their disease was supposed to have been the cholera. Recent disclosures have excited suspicion that they were poisoned by their own daughter, a girl of fifteen. A young man had been paying his attentions to her, to whom the parents objected on account of his bad character. To remove this obstacle, it is supposed that the young girl consented to and committed the horrible crime of parricide.

LATE AND INTERESTING FROM TEXAS.—By advices from Galveston, to the 15th inst., we learn that Secretary Conrad had disapproved of the action of Gov. Bell in calling out three companies of Rangers to operate against the Indians. Lieut. W. P. Street, United States army, had committed suicide at Fort M'Davitt. It was reported that a fight had occurred twenty miles west of San Patricio, between 42 Indians and a party of Mexicans, in which 11 of the latter had been slain. The Indians were swarming the whole country between the Rio Nueces and the Rio Frio, and had turned back the express mail between Fort Ewell and San Antonio.—Lieut. McRae, with a detachment of troops, had gone in pursuit of them. Commissioner Bartlett, of boundary survey, had completed the survey of the Gila, and Maj. Emory had surveyed the Rio Grande as far as Presidio del Norte.

ROMANCE SPOILED.—A pretty bit of romance in relation to a lady who had married her fifth husband originated a short time since in Holmes county, Miss. The Lexington Advertiser, published in that county, spoils the interesting story, remarking that—

"A story is going the rounds of the papers, about a woman living in Holmes county, who has married five husbands, her first and fifth being identical—and her third the officiating minister at her last marriage. This speaks very badly for the morality of our county. We have inquired into the matter, and learn that the aforesaid "lady" is a negro woman living in the southern portion of our county."

WAS THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON EVER WOUNDED?—In "Rush's Residence at the Court of London," the following anecdote is recorded: "Until this occasion I was under the impression that the Duke of Wellington never was wounded; but Sir George Walker said that not long after the storming of Badajos, he was struck by a random musket ball in the side, in an affair with the French on the borders of France. It was merely a slight wound, and was dressed on the spot. The Duke, on receiving it, exclaimed, 'Hit at last,' and seemed much pleased."

☞ We learn from the Philadelphia Bulletin that Col. Isaac Wayne, the only son of Major General Anthony Wayne, of the Revolutionary war, died on Monday last, at his residence in Chester county, Pa. in the 83d year of his age. Col. Wayne was an excellent citizen and well worthy of the distinguished name he bore. In early times he took a prominent part in the politics of the State, and was formerly in the State Senate, besides holding other offices. He was also the candidate for Governor of the Federal party in 1814, in opposition to Governor Snyder.

Erie Weekly Observer.

ERIE, PA.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 6 1852.

THE GRAND RESULT!

The Echo of "THAT RICH IRISH BROGUE."

"WHO IS FRANK PIERCE!"

We feel too much gratified with the result of Tuesday's work in the Union to exult much over our whig friends, hence we will merely sum up the grand total, as indicated by the returns thus far received, and leave Whigs and Democrats to digest them as they please.

Pennsylvania goes for Pierce by 20,000!
Ohio by 20,000!
New York by 25,000!
New Hampshire by 15,000!
Maine by 15,000!
Connecticut by 3,000!
Rhode Island by 1,000!
New Jersey by over 1,000!
Delaware by a handsome majority!
Maryland by 6,000!
Virginia by at least 10,000!
Michigan by 7.000!
Wisconsin by 5,000!
Illinois by 10,000!
Indiana by 15,000!
Missouri by a large majority!
Iowa by 2,000!

To this array may be added Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia. North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, California and Texas, making in all 254 Electoral votes for FRANKLIN PIERCE, and leaving Gen. Scott,

Vermont,
Massachusetts,
Kentucky and Tennessee,

which cast 42 electoral votes! or just 5 more than we gave him in our estimate last week!

The Result in the City and County.

The result of Tuesday's work in the city and county is truly gratifying, and shows what the Democracy can do when thoroughly aroused! In the city we had to contend against a host of active, working whigs, aided by their own wealth, and the money of the rich manufacturers of the East, and the office holders of the government. In addition to this they have always, till this year, been in an overwhelming majority. Confident of their power, they boastingly claimed from one hundred to two-hundred, and they got twenty four, in a poll of over 900 votes! Under these circumstances, we say the Democracy of Erie have done well—nobly! In the County our friends have fought through the canvass with a determination and a zeal that deserved success, and although the county is still whig, they have the proud satisfaction of knowing that they have contributed to the achievement of one of the grandest, one of the most stupendous political victories ever won! If any of our friends has the Observer announcing the defeat of the Democracy of 1848, when by fraud, by hypocracy and by falsehood, Taylorism under the guise of no-partyism, struck down the gallant Cass, they will find that amid the darkness that then enveloped the Democratic party, we announced that we could see "above and beyond the horizon of whig success—high above the 'noise and confusion' of whig rejoicing,—the sun of Democratic ascendency shining out—the shouts of Democratic victory reverberating even among the hills and valleys of protection—humbugged Pennsylvania." That prediction is now verified! The shouts of Democratic victory is reverberating, not alone in Pennsylvania, but in almost every state in this broad Union! Democrats of Erie county, in this victory you have participated; and whatever of glories to our country will result from it, a portion will shine upon you! Rejoice, then, and stand firm: whiggery in Erie County even is caving—Look at the city, at Millcreek, at Wayne, at Elk Creek at Concord, at Amity, and the other towns! In all, the contest has been animated, and the Democracy have maintained more than an even fight. In some they have gained, and in all they have done well—very well! The whigs claimed from 1700 to 2000, and they have but a fraction over 1250.

TERRIBLE CALAMITY.—On Tuesday morning last the dwelling of Myron H. Cole, of Wellsburg, in this county, took fire, and when it was discovered the flames had got so far under head way that all its contents were burnt, together with three of Mr. Cole's children, and a daughter of Gen. James Fleming, who was staying over night. The fire was an accident.

☞ Oh that funny "Prediction" of the Observer!—He, he, ha! It is really too bad for the editor to be "as funny as he can." He endangers the lives of his readers, "Pierce 259" votes, and "Scott 37!" And then to think of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, all being put down for Pierce. Surely there will have to be a law against putting such mirth-exciting jests in newspapers.—Commercial.

If there was a law against a man making a jackass of himself, the Editor of the Commercial would be indicted immediately; unless, indeed, he could convince the jury that nature had got the start of him. But enough of this! "That funny prediction of the Observer," the wise author of the above has ascertained ere this we presume, is so near right that Scott stands a chance of getting even worse beat than we predicted—at any rate he will not get 20 votes above our mark! We hope the Editor of the Commercial will be "as funny as he can" next week, and tell his readers that we are a true prophet!

☞ Warren and Smythe are reciving some very nice new Hats—expressly for the accommodation of those whigs who "bet their money on the bob-tailed nag," and lost.

☞ We are requested to state that the Universalist Society will hold their Religious Service in the Court House, on to-morrow at the usual hours, on account of some repairs being made on their House.

The Late Contest.

Our country has just been the theatre of the most sublime political event which the world can display. Throughout its broad extent its millions have been called upon to decide in one day the rule and policy of the nation; an event which embraces so many powerful feelings and interests would in times not long gone, does still in nations not far distant, call out armies and crimson battle fields; with us the whole machinery has been a piece of paper, a few type and a ame l box: and yet upon these have been concentrated the interest, not only of this nation, but the attention of the rulers and people of Europe. Despots and their partisans, with fear and trembling, the friends of freedom, civil, religious, and commercial, with cheerful hope, have listened for the voice of that Democracy which all feel is to influence the destines of the world. It has spoken in tones of crashing thunder—From the Granite hills of New Hampshire, along the shores of the Atlantic, over the forest and prairies of the west, and coming from beyond the Rocky Mountains, the voice of the people in asserting the triumph of Democratic principles has again spoken the decrees of the Deity. They have been spoken in majorities rolling up and up to astounding numbers, as if they would say not only for ever and undisputed be our principles, but down to the dust with the insult which proffered the glitter of a soldier's uniform as a seduction from those principles.

But the words of the distinguished citizen who has been so triumphantly called to preside over the destinies of this nation admonish us to be moderate. "He trusted his friends would not forget that, with high toned and honorable men, the hour of triumph was always the hour of magnanimity. It was not to be overlooked, that there were around us, many with whom we were in daily intercourse at this moment, moved by feelings exactly opposite of those which called out the assemblage before him; and his friends could well afford to allow that circumstance to detract somewhat from their generous joy. He hoped they would also remember that no prospects of success, nor indeed political elevation itself, could render their neighbor more or less worthy of the confidence and affection for which he was profoundly grateful." But still it is our duty to draw instruction from the glorious event which has just transpired.

The principles of Democracy are so clearly defined, so broadly asserted, and so well understood, that it is useless to say more upon the support given them in this triumph, and we will therefore now limit our comments to the incidental circumstances of this contest.

Supposing that the distinguished soldier who had already reaped all the legitimate rewards of military achievements in their accompanying military glory;—Supposing that this gentleman, whose

"Vaulting ambition
Which o'erleaps itself,
And falls on t'other side"

had been elected to the Presidency. Our youth would have had the most dangerous incentives to look hereafter to the campaign as the road for that ambition which naturally moves mankind, and which in these times, finds a more beneficent and fitting field of operation in the great pacific interests of the world, than amid the blood and carnage of the battle ground. The camp thus filled, wars become necessary to give opportunity for the energies crowding the vocation of arms, and amid wars, aspiring generals would have every inducement to use the powers committed to them to cast aside all subordination to the civil government, its orders and its policy, if from brilliant achievements in arms, they could hope in political success a popular justification of the crime; and thus we should have made rapid strides to military citizenship and the government of the bayonet. From all this, God be thanked, the intelligence of the Democracy has saved our country and has scattered to the winds every rag of the tinsel dressed puppet, military availability.

Again—Franklin Pierce has been called the "British candidate for the Presidency" and the Democracy the "British party." If it were not for the lesson it teaches delicacy would forbid us to allude to this from the burning blush of shame it must now call to the cheek of every gentleman who has sanctioned the slander.

Who then constitute this British party? The great majority of the American people to begin with—a large majority of those statesmen and legislators, who make and execute the laws of the individual States, of those who have reached the distinguished position of representing the States in the Senate, and of those who legislate for the nation in the other House—a large number, if not a majority of the officers and men of the Army and Navy. By this charge, men, who by talents and patriotic service, have reached the highest stations are accused either of political stupidity or of a treason worse than Arnold's, or indeed of anything short of the kiss of Judas.

It is natural that the free press of the world, under whatever sky, should sympathize with us as it has done, and shall we deny them this sympathy or lose our nationality?

If prosperous and happy ourselves shall we selfishly refuse to let others be so? shall we destroy our own prosperity lest others should partake of it? There are certain kinds of prosperity which must be participated in by many parties, and all must be prosperous or the reverse together—such is particularly the case with commercial interchanges, and we can no more separate the prosperity of our city from that of our county than we can that of our country from the advantage it gives those nations with which it has free commercial relations. Appropriate to this, the New York Times says, speaking of cotton: "The weekly consumption of the kingdom of Great Britian rapidly approaches 40,000 bales a week."

"In regard to the corn market—embracing all our cereal grains and flour—the activity of demand and the tendency to speculation appear to grow out of the enormously advanced use of cheap bread all over the kingdom.—Of the Irish consumers, it is observed in one of the circulars 'the low price of food and the full price of labor produce a reckless extravagance in consumption.' " The imports of grain into the kingdom before 1846 were but two or three millions of quarters per annum, they are now thirteen or fourteen millions—add to this picture the activity of the ships carrying all this produce and the wares it purchases—the high rate of seamen's wages, and we have the results of Democratic principles in commerce which have filled our own cup to running over, given abundance for starvation to our fellow beings—and will cause the heart of the christian and patriot to rejoice even though called a British partisan by those who cannot see over the narrow selfishness which hedges them in, and know nothing of the brotherhood of humanity.

It is now said that the great result which cheers us has been effected by the foreign vote altogether. The absurdity of such an estimate is written in the figures which roll up the majorities. We should be happy to know that every foreigner had thus voted; it would be giving us the aid of all that honesty and intelligence which have been flattered and courted by the whig party, and whose rich utterance charmed the ears of that party's captain. In sustaining the principles advocated by the majority of the people and statesmen among whom they have come, instead of those of a party passing by diminishing minorities into annihilation, our adopted citizens have shewn at once their intelligent discrimination and their value to the Republic.

In conclusion we would ask, what good has ever arisen to the whig party from the use of its terms of contempt and reproach? Has it brought one adherent to its ranks? On the contrary men have felt the effort to insult their doctrines by terms of contempt, have cherished their principles the more and have sent the epithets Loco-foco and Loco-focoism broad spread over the land ennobled by the principles they carried with them.

☞ BROWN'S NEW HOTEL.—This splendid establishment, built upon the site of the "old Eagle," will be open for the reception of visitors on the 10th, on which occasion the "Major" promises to meet all his old friends at the front door with his best clothes on. The House has been finished and furnished in the most approved modern style, and in all that constitutes a hotel is not surpassed by any west of New York.

☞ The signs of the times in New York leave no room to doubt the success of Winfield Scott in that State.—Chronicle.

This is the kind of information the Chronicle spread before its credulous readers on Tuesday morning. On Tuesday evening the telegraph proclaimed that Pierce had carried the state by from 20, to 25,000! Verily, what sage calculators these whigs are!

☞ Our devil, whose "rich brogue" is of that character Gen. Scott so loved to hear, says "An sure, he'd like to know whether that blissed holyday, the Commercial promised its boys, will iver come, at all, at all?"

☞ The smallest stake we have heard of during the canvass, is that of an enthusiastic Whig, who "staked his reputation" that Erie county would give 1700 for Scott. We hope the Democrat that has won it, won't keep it—it would ruin him!

☞ The Rochester Union, says that another fool has been jumping off Queenston Suspension bridge, into the Niagara. He struck on his back, and swam ashore slightly injured. Lucky he did not strike on his head, for that must have been dangerously soft.

☞ The steamship Washington was taken possession of by officers of the United States government, on her arrival at New York, on Wednesday, on suspicion of having smuggled merchandise on board on her previous trip. The captain, purser and first officer were held to bail in the sum of $5,000 each.

☞ It has been decided to assign to Lieutenant Page the exploration of the Amazon River, which it is ascertained, is navigable for 4,000 miles, with a depth of water from 40 to 250 feet, approaching within 150 miles of the Pacific.

☞ The emigration to Oregon this year is very large. 187 wagons have passed the "gate" on the other side of the mountains, and with them 760 persons, 1,000 head of cattle, and 400 head of horses and mules. The health of the emigrants was generally good, though there had been much suffering upon the route.

☞ The aggregate wealth of the U. States amounts to $12,000,000,000, and the population is 24,000,000 of souls. The wealth divided by the population gives $500 to each person, young and old; and counting five persons to each family, it would give the handsome little fortune of $2,500 to every family of the Republic.

☞ It would be extremely convenient if some one were to discover a silver mine somewhere; for the scarcity of silver change is becoming a serious matter. There is the same scarcity in England; and in Austria it is a great deal worse. Where is the silver all gone? and what is to be done?

☞ How many of our fair readers, as they draw on their "French kid gloves," are aware those same gloves are made of rat skins? The catching of rats for this purpose is a regular trade in Paris, in which hundreds of men find employment.

☞ An enthusiastic Democratic Editor in New York, thus breaks forth over the result in the Keystone:

PENNSYLVANIA is a nation,
Twice as large as all creation,
She's enough to scare the Scottites
Out of wits and out of daylights.
Oh! poor Whigs, what makes you feel so badly?
Oh! poor Whigs, why do you wonder?
This is Democratic Thunder!

☞ The important Ship Canal which is to unite Lake Superior and Michigan will soon be begun. The surveys for its location have been completed, and the ground has been found quite as favorable for the easy and speedy construction of the work as was expected. Several routes have been surveyed, which will enable the Legislature of Michigan and contractors to obtain a perfect understanding of the whole subject. The canal will be a fraction less than a mile in length. The law of Congress provides that the locks shall be at least 269 feet long and 60 feet wide.

☞ QUERY?—If Gen. Scott only gets four States in a contest with an "unknown," "fainting" candidate, like Gen. Pierce, how many would he have got had either Gen. Cass, Sam Houston, Mr. Buchanan, the "Little Giant" or Gov. Marcy, been the candidate? Here is a question for the "school masters" of the whig party to figure out.

☞ The result in New Hampshire, and New Jersey shows that there is great advantage in being unknown. Before election the whigs told us General Pierce was an "unknown" "obscure" third-rate lawyer—a man never heard of until the Baltimore Convention brought him out for President. On the other hand they told us Gen. Scott was well known to the country and the world—that his name could not be obliterated without obliterating a bright page in our country's history! All of which the Democracy admitted, except that in regard to Gen. Pierce; well, the result shows that in New Jersey, a whig State, where Gen. Scott resides, and where he is well known, he is badly beaten by this "unknown" Frank Pierce; and in New Hampshire, where Pierce resides, a Democratic State, he scarcely got votes enough to count.

DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—That this medicine will cure liver complaint and dispepsia, no one can doubt after using it as directed. It acts specifically upon the stomach and liver; it is preferable to calomel in all bilious diseases; it acts as specifically upon the liver as calomel; calomel prostrates the system—the bitters strengthen and never prostrates the patient, and will give renewed life and health to the delicate invalid, and restore the liver to its functions, and give digestion and appetite in those severe cases where in the ordinary medicines fail in producing any effect. 2m1

Fortunes Made by Advertising.

From a small pamphlet, entitled "The Art of making Money," an extract has been taken, and is going the round of the provincial press, pointing out the facility of making immense sums by the simple process of continuous advertising. Doubtless large sums have been, are, and will be made by such a system by certain persons of ability, who no doubt would make their way in the world if called upon to play different parts on the great stage of life; but to suppose that men in general must, as a matter of course, acquire wealth by such means, is as absurd as to imagine that all the penniless and shoeless of London are capable of rising to the dignity and wealth of an alderman or the lord mayor of London simply by reading the "Young Man's Best Companion." Money is not so easily made as the writer of the article referred to would lead people to suppose; if it be so, few need be poor.—But to our text: fortunes made by advertising. Undoubtedly the greatest man of the day as an advertiser is Holloway, who expends the enormous sum of twenty thousand pounds annually in advertisements alone; his name is not only to be seen in nearly every paper and periodical published in the British Isles, but as if this country was too small for this individual's exploits, he stretches over the whole of India, having agents in all the different parts of the upper, central, and lower provinces of that immense country, publishing his medicaments in the Hindoo, Oordoo, Goozratee, and other native languages, so that the Indian public can take the Pills and use his Ointment according to general directions, as a Cockney would do within the sound of Bow Bells. We find him again at Hong Kong and Canton, making his medicines known to the Celestials by means of a Chinese translation. We trace him from thence to the Philippine Islands, where he is circulating his preparations in the native languages. At Singapore he has a large depot h[illegible] there supply all the Islands in the Indian Seas. His advertisements are published in most of the papers at Sydney, Hobart Town, Launceston, Adelaid, Port Philip, and indeed in almost every town of that vast portion of the British empire. Returning homewards, we find his Pills and Ointment selling at Valparaiso, Lima, Callao, and other ports in the Pacific. Doubling the Horn, we track him in the Atlantic—Monte Video, Buenos Ayres, Santos, Rio de Janeiro, Bahia, Pernambuco; he is advertising in those parts in Spanish and Portugues. In all the British West India Islands, as also in the Upper and Lower Canadas, and the neighboring provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, his medicines are as familiarly known, and sold by every druggist, as they are at home. In the Mediterranean we find them selling at Malta, Corfu, Athens, and Alexandria, besides at Tunis and other portions of the Barbary states. Any one taking the trouble to look at the Journal and Courier, of Constantinople, may find in these, as well as other papers, that Holloway's medicines are regularly advertised and selling throughout the Turkish empire; and even in Russia, where an almost insurmountable barrier exists, the laws there prohibiting the entree of patent medicines, Holloway's ingenuity has been at work and obviates this difficulty by forwarding supplies to his Agent at Odessa, a port situated on the Black Sea, where they filter themselves surreptitiously by various channels, into the very heart of the empire. Africa has not been forgotten by this indefatigable man, who has an agent on the River Gambia, also at Sierra Leone, the plague spot of the world, the inhabitants readily avail themselves of the Ointment and Pills; thus we can show our readers that Holloway has made the complete circuit of the globe, commencing with India, and ending, as we do, with the Cape of Good Hope, where his medicines are published in the Dutch and English languages; and while speaking of Dutch, we have heard that he has made large shipments to Holland, and is about advertising in every paper or periodical published in that kingdom; we might add that he has also started his medicine in some parts of France; in some portions of Germany; as also in some of the Italian States. We have been at some little trouble to collect all the facts, because we fear that the article before alluded to, "the Art of making Money," is calculated to lead people to spend their means in the hope (as the author states) of making a hundred thousand pounds in six years for their pains, by holding up as an easy example to follow such a man as Holloway, who is really a Napoleon in his way. Many may have the means, but have they the knowledge, ability, energy, judgment, and prudence necessary?—Failing in any one of the requisite, a total loss is certain. Holloway is a man calculated to undertake any enterprise requiring immense energies of body and mind.—He has made a large fortune by his labors; and is, we should suppose, every day greatly increasing his wealth. Of course it is not to our interest to deter the public from advertising; but, as guardians of their interests, we think it our incumbent duty to place a lighthouse upon what we consider a dangerous shoal, which may perhaps sooner or later prevent shipwreck and ruin to the sanguine and inexperienced about to navigate in such waters.

The Editor of the "Edinburgh Review," in a number published about three years ago, stated, that he considered he was making a desirable bequest to posterity, by handing down to them the amount of talent and ability required by the present class of large advertisers. At that period Holloway's mode of advertising was most prominently set forth; and if these remarks, conjointly with his, should descend to a generation to come, it will be known to what extent the subject of this article was able to carry out his views, together with the consequent expenditure in making known the merits of his preparations to nearly the whole world.—Pictorial Times, a London Weekly Paper.

DUNLAP'S BOOK OF FORMS!

New Edition.

E. C. & J. Biddle, No 6 South fifth-st., Philadelphia, have just published a Book of Forms, containing

MORE THAN TWELVE HUNDRED FORMS,

For practice in the Courts of Pennsylvania and of the United States, and for Conveyancing; also for the use of Public Officers and Men of Business generally. Adapted to the recent acts of assembly of Pennsylvania, with explanatory remarks and numerous precedents and references to standard authorities. To which are appended a Glossary of Law terms and a copious Index. By James D. Dunlap, Counsellor at Law, &c. Second Edition. Price—Four Dollars.

The publishers have already received from nearly all of the President Judges of our State, and from other gentlemen eminent in the legal profession, their opinions of the work, which are of a highly complimentary nature. The following are selected from a large number of an equally favorable character—

Wellsborough, April 9 1852.

Gentlemen: The collections of court forms for conveyancing, &c., which had been in use previous to the publication of Dunlap's work in 1843, needed revision to make them convenient, and to adapt them to changes which legislation had rendered necessary in the practice in the courts in Pennsylvania.

Your edition of that work therefore received, as it merited, the approbation of the legal profession, and supplied a want which was felt by business men generally throughout the State.

After the numerous testimonials which you have received from eminent judges, in respect to the usefulness and excellence of that work, commendation of it from me would be superfluous.

I may be permitted, however, to remark that I approve of the general character and arrangement of the work, and, having examined a portion of the new edition which you are publishing, I may add that the author has greatly enlarged and improved his first edition, and that, when published, his book will be the most convenient and useful one of the kind extant.

Very truly yours, &c.,

Messrs. E. C. & J. Biddle. R. G. WHITE.

Pittsburgh, April 14 1852.

Gentlemen: "Dunlap's Conveyancing and Forms" is a work of decided merit. I am glad to find that it is to be reproduced, with many valuable additions. It should be in the hands not only of lawyers and magistrates, but of the business community generally. There is scarcely a position in life in which a man will not occasionally find himself in need of the assistance of such a work. I hope the author may be abundantly renumerated for the earning and industry bestowed upon it.

With great respect, yours, &c.,

Messrs. E. C. & J. Biddle. WALTER FORWARD.

Greensburgh, April 9, 1852.

Gentlemen: You have favored me with the printed sheets, from page 9 to 136 inclusive, of the second edition of Mr. Dunlap's Book of Forms. I am pleased to learn that a second edition of his work is about being issued. It has been, and now is, one of the best works of the kind in the hands of the profession, and is evidently much improved by the author's revision and additions.

I have the pleasure of an acquaintance with Mr. Dunlap. He is a gentleman whose respectable professional attainments and methodical habit of mind fit him well to be the author of such a work. I shall not hesitate to recommend it to the gentlemen of the Bar in the 10th district. Very respectfully, &c.,

Messrs. E. C. & J. Biddle. J. M. BURRELL.

Huntingdon, April 26 1852.

Gentlemen: Important changes in our statutes, since the publication of "Dunlap's Conveyancing and Forms," seemed to call for some enlargement of that excellent and highly useful work.—The edition which you are about to publish, embodying as it does a very large amount of new and varied matter, and being so well adapted to general and present wants, cannot fail to be greeted with a cordial welcome by the profession.

A familiar acquaintance with the work, and a careful examination of the sheets of the forthcoming edition, enable me to recommend it, with great confidence, as a book which should be in the hands of every scrivener, and have an early place in the library of every gentleman engaged in the practice of the law.

Very respectfully, yours &c.,

Messrs. E. C. & J. Biddle. GEORGE TAYLOR.

TWO GOOD FARMS FOR SALE.

THE executors of the last will and testament of Samuel Kerr, dec'd, late of Oil Creek, Crawford county, Pa., will sell at private sale, the real estate of their said testator, consisting of over 800 acres of excellent land, situate in the best part of the Valley of Oil Creek, and in the borough of Titusville, between the 1st day of November, and the 18th day of December, 1852. Proposals for purchase will be received until the 18th day of Dec., before which day no bargain will be finally concluded. The land will be sold in two parts. The Eastern part, 302 acres, with 75 acres improved land, will be sold on the following terms. Two-thirds of the purchase money within 30 days from the time of purchase, and the remainder in nine months thereafter. The Western part, about 500 acres, with about 110 acres improved, and a good house and barn, will be sold on terms of immediate payment. Both parts afford admirable facilities for grain, grazing and dairy farms, being alike composed of nearly equal portions of first bottom, second bottom and hill land. Their contiguity with the thriving borough of Titusville, their nearness to other towns and cities, and their location in the midst of a very extensive lumbering country, insure an unfailing market for their produce and a rapidly increasing value to the land itself. They also afford valuable water privileges. To all who are unacquainted with the character and quality of these farms, we would say, come and examine them. Any information which may be desired concerning the above property, or terms of sale, may be had by application to us at Titusville,

THE ROAD TO HEALTH,

HALLOWAY'S PILLS.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION

Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7 Prescot Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.

To Professor Holloway, SIR,—Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on our sale list of proprietory Medicines for some years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any enquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars of the cure. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver, and bad digestion. On the last occasion, however, the virulence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set in so severely, that doubts were entertained of her not being able to bear up under it; fortunately she was induced to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first, and each succeeding dose, she had great relief. She continued to take them, and although she used only three boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many more cases, but the above from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think, speaks much in favor of your astonishing Pills. (Signed) R. W. KIRKUS.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC FEVER, IN VAN DIEMEN'S LAND.

Copy of a Letter inserted in the Hobart Town Courier, of the 1st March, 1851, by Major J. Walch.

Margaret M'Connigan, nineteen years of age, residing at New Town, had been suffering from a violent rheumatic fever for upwards of two months, which had entirely deprived her of the use of her limbs; during this period she was under the care of the most eminent medical men in Hobart Town, and by them her case was considered hopeless. A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she consented to do, and in an incredible short space of time they effected a perfect cure.

CURE OF A PAIN AND TIGHTNESS IN THE CHEST AND STOMACH OF A PERSON 84 YEARS OF AGE.

From Messrs Thew & Son, Proprietors of the Lynn Advertiser, who can vouch for the following statement.—August 2nd, 1851.

To Professor, Holloway,—SIR,—I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a pain and tightness in the stomach which was also accompanied by a shortness of breath, that prevented me from walking about. I am 84 years of age, and notwithstanding my advanced state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am desirous that others should be made acquainted with their virtues. I am now rendered, by their means, comparatively active, and can take exercise without inconvenience or pain, which I could not do before. (Signed) HENRY COE,

Progress in the BOOT AND SHOE TRADE.

WILCOX & NORTON, No. 2, Wright's block, State street, Erie Pa., are enabled by their present arrangement, to sell Boots and Shoes, made from the best of stock and of superior workmanship, at prices so reduced as will justify them in proclaiming a New Era in the Boot and Shoe trade in Erie. They have constantly employed a considerable number of the best and most EXPERIENCED WORKMEN, in that line, at places where the business can be conducted to the best advantage, and where the best materials can be procured, and all necessary facilities afforded at the lowest possible rates; hence they are enabled to offer the public Boots and Shoes of their OWN MANUFACTURE, and warranted, at prices so low that even our competitors in Erie do not hesitate to proclaim in public, that Wilcox & Norton are selling Boots and Shoes less than cost. How that may be matters not with their customers. They think they are realizing small profits, and with the unprecedented amount of their sales, small profits suffices them. If their competitors fall to the rear in the effort to "drag their slow length along," and find it difficult to labor up the steeps of progress, W. & N. will render them every assistance example can bestow, while sporting in the plains above them.

The hundreds of cases of Boots and Shoes they have recently received, together with the almost daily fresh supplies from their Manufactories, enables them to accommodate the varied exigencies of the public with unfailing precision.

ATTENTION WANTED.

THE attention of Farmers, Bakers and feeders of stock, is respectfully called to an examination of the Conical Burr Stone Grist Mills, just started to do custom Grinding at the Fairmount Mills in Erie. Those Mills are warranted to perform as recommended, and will make better flour with close grinding than any flat stone whatever, and we challenge competition, having full confidence in those Mills, and shall rely on the judgment of those who make a trial of them, or the work they do, for success and patronage. The first Premium a Silver Medal was awarded to the Conical Mills, at the Ohio State Fair, making over forty premiums awarded to the Conical Mills at the different State Fairs Apply to J SEIGELEER Agent, American Hotel, or J. L. Sanford, Fairmount Mills Erie.

MIDDLETOWN, Delaware Co., N. Y.

This is to certify that I have now in use one of Ross' Patent Portable Burr Stone Mills, and I am satisfied that it will more than answer its recommendations. It is the best Portable Mill that has been invented—there is one in use about 9 miles from me that does quite a custom business. I can cheerfully recommend it to the public. E. A. CLARK, Miller.

The subscribers have recently purchased one of Ross' Portable Meal Mills, and take pleasure in certifying that it operates to our entire satisfaction. The meal made by this mill is, in our opinion, superior to any we have used from other mills.

Norfolk, Va., March 7th, 1849. PLUME & CO.

CARTERVILLE, Nov 13th, 1851.

"C. Ross:—We hereby certify that we have put up and run for about one year, two of your patent Conical Burr Stone Mills, for the purpose of Custom Grinding, at Carterville Oswego co., and are well pleased with their work, as our patrons are satisfied with the work they do." Respectfully yours, J. & R. CARTER.

VALDOSTA, Laurens Co., Ga. April 26 1847.

I have tried the Patent Conical Mill for grinding corn, and have found it to answer admirably. No planter that is not in the vicinity of a public mill ought to be without one, if he can afford to purchase, and his family is sufficiently large to require the use of it; otherwise I would suggest that several farmers of a neighborhood should unite to purchase one in common, which, being established in a central position, will be accessible to all

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP ASTHMA and CONSUMPTION

This invaluable remedy for all diseases of the THROAT and LUNGS, has attained a celebrity from its remarkable cures, never equalled by any other medicine before. Other Preparations have shown themselves palliatives, and sometimes effected notable cures, but none has ever so fully won the confidence of every community where it is known. After years of trial in every climate, the results have indisputably shown it to possess a mastery over this dangerous class of diseases, which could not fail to attract the attention of Physicians, Patients, and the public at large.

See the statements, not of obscure individuals and from far distant places, but of men who are known and respected throughout the country.

The widely celebrated Surgeon, Doct Valentine Mott, of New York City, says:

"It gives me pleasure to certify the value and efficacy of 'AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,' which I consider peculiarly adapted to cure diseases of the throat and lungs."

DR. PERKINS, the venerable President of the Vermont Medical College, one of the eminently learned physicians of this country, writes, the CHERRY PECTORAL is extensively used in this section, where it has shown unmistakable evidence of its happy effects upon pulmonary diseases.

The Rev. Jno. D. Cochrane, a distinguished Clergyman of the English Church, writes to the proprietor from Montreal, that "he has been cured of a severe asthmatic affection, by CHERRY PECTORAL." His letter at full length, may be found in our circular, to be had of the Agent, and is worth the attention of asmatic patients.

This letter is from the well known Druggist at Hillsdale, Michigan, one of the largest dealers in the State, and this case is from his own observation.

HILLSDALE, Mich., Dec. 10, 1849.

Dear Sir: Some lately on receipt of your CHERRY PECTORAL, I carried a bottle to an acquaintance of mine who was thought to be near the end with quick consumption. He was then unable to rise from his bed, and I was extremely feeble. His friends believed he must soon die, unless relief could be obtained for him, and I induced them to give your excellent medicine a trial. I immediately left town for three weeks, and you may judge of my surprise on my return, to meet him in the street on my way home from the cars, and find he had entirely recovered. Four weeks from the day he commenced taking your medicine, he was at work at his arduous trade of a blacksmith.

There are other cases within my knowledge, where the CHERRY PECTORAL has been singularly successful, but none so marked as this. Very truly yours,

G. W. UNDERWOOD.

Hear the Patient.

Dr J. C. Ayer, Lowell—Dear Sir Feeling under obligations to you for the restoration of my health, I send you a report of my case, which you are at liberty to publish for the benefit of others. Last autumn I took a bad cold, accompanied by a severe cough and made use of many medicines without obtaining relief. I was obliged to give up business, frequently raised blood, and could get no sleep at night. A friend gave me a bottle of your CHERRY PECTORAL, the use of which I immediately commenced according to directions. I have just purchased the fifth bottle, and am nearly recovered. I now sleep well, my cough has ceased, and all by the use of your valuable medicine.

E. S. STONE, A. M.

Principal Mt. Hope Seminary.

Hanover, Ohio, April 3, 1850.

Dear Sir: I wish I could tell all that suffer with a cough, what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for me. It does seem that they might be benefitted by the information. I had a lung fever which left my lungs weak and inflamed. Being very feeble and unable to gain strength at all, my friends thought I must soon sink into consumption. I had no appetite, and a dreadful cough was fast wearing me away. I began to take your beautiful medicine, by the advice of a clergyman, who had seen its effects before. It eased my cough at first, and gave me rest at night. In less than a fortnight I could eat well, and my cough had ceased to be troublesome, my appetite returned, and my food nourished me, which soon restored my strength. Now after five weeks, I am well and strong, with no other help than your Cherry Pectoral

Yours with respect

JULIA DEAN.

I hereby certify that the above statement of my wife is in conformity with my own views of her case and her cure by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral JOSEPH DEAN.

The above named Joseph Dean and Julia, his wife, are personally known to me, and implicit confidence may be placed in their statement.

ERIE DAGUERREAN GALLERY,
Park Row, a few doors West of the REED HOUSE.
SHERMAN is happy to invite all who wish DAGUERREOTYPE LIKENESSES, who are at all particular what kind of pictures they have, to his new Rooms which have been built expressly for the Art. LIGHT is the great agent of the Artist, and it has been the constant study of all worthy of the name since the Art was discovered, to employ and control it in the manner best adapted to produce the most favorable results. The result of this study and of thousands of experiments is that there is not a respectable permanent Gallery in the U. States where the pictures are made by a common window, and he who says he can produce superior pictures by such a window proves his ignorance of the Art. The subscriber therefore begs leave to say that by his superior LIGHT, and with an apparatus worth six times any other in this city he is enabled to produce pictures which cannot be equalled in this part of the country, and offers to excell any thing which can be produced in other rooms in Erie, or forfeit one hundred dollars. He has also a splendid Quick Working Camera, with which he takes children of any age! Let it be distinctly understood his pictures will not fade if properly kept.

GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY.
The most valuable Spring and Summer Medicine in the World!
HALSEY'S FOREST WINE,
PATRONIZED BY THE NOBILITY AND MEDICAL FACULTY OF ENGLAND, AND ESTEEMED THE MOST EXTRAORDINARY IN THE WORLD.

MEDICINES containing molasses or liquorice, like the boasted Sarsaparillas, require many large bottles to produce the slightest change in health. The Forest Wine is altogether a different article. It contains no syrups to give it consistency, but acquires its excellent flavor and powerful medicinal qualities from the vegetable plants of which it is composed. The Forest Wine combines the virtues of the Wild Cherry, Dandelion, Yellow Dock, and Sarsaparilla, with other valuable plants whose properties are still more powerful. Its high concentration renders it one of the most efficient medicine now in use. Less than a single bottle restores the lingering patient from weakness, debility, and sickness, to strong and vigorous health. The Forest Wine is recommended, in the strongest terms, for all complaints of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Nervous Disorders, Bilious Affections, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, Female Complaints, Scrofula, and all Disorders arising from BAD BLOOD, and impure habits of the system.

SAVED FROM DEATH!!!
Testimony of Mr. Nathan Matthews, a highly respectable and wealthy citizen of Newark, N. J.

Dr. G. W. Halsey:—I believe your Forest Wine and Pills have been the means of saving my life. When I commenced taking them, I laid at the point of death, with Dropsy, Piles, and Asthma. My physicians had given me over as past recovery. While in this dreadful situation your Forest Wine and Pills were procured for me, and before I had finished the first bottle of the Wine and box of Pills, I experienced great relief; my body and limbs, which were greatly swollen, became sensibly reduced. Hopes of my recovery began now to revive, and after continuing the use of your medicines for about a month, the Piles and Asthma were completely cured. The Dropsy, with which my life was placed in such great danger, was also nearly gone. I have continued the use of your medicines until the present time, and I now enjoy as perfect health as ever I did in my life, although I am more than sixty years of age. I ascribe my recovery entirely to the use of your excellent medicines. Several of my neighbors have also used them with similar success in obstinate complaints, and I can cheerfully recommend them to the public.
Newark N. J. Dec. 19 1847. Yours, &c. N. MATHEWS.

GREAT CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT OF TEN YEARS STANDING!
New York, Jan. 8 1849.

Dr. Halsey, Dear Sir:—Having taken your Forest Wine and Pills to remove a disease of the liver, from which I have suffered severely for upwards of ten years; and having adhered closely to the directions which accompany the medicines, I have recovered my health, notwithstanding all who knew me thought my case incurable. Previous to taking the Wine and Pills, I had recourse to the best medical treatment, but continued to grow worse to an alarming degree. Some of my friends spoke despairingly of my case, and tried to persuade me from making use of any advertised remedies; and, I doubt not, but what there are hundreds who are dissuaded from taking your excellent medicines, in consequence of the deception and inefficiency of many advertised remedies put forth by unprincipled men in flaming advertisements. But, what a pity it is, that the deception used by others, should be the means of dissuading many laboring under disease, from making trial and being cured by your excellent remedies. Humanly speaking, they have saved my life; when I commenced making use of them, I was in a wretched condition, but began to experience their good effects in less than three days; and, in six weeks from the time I purchased the medicines, to the great surprise of all my friends, I was entirely cured, and had increased 15 pounds in weight, having taken one box of the Pills, and two bottles of the Wine. Would to God that every poor sufferer would avail himself of the same remedies. Yours, &c. JAMES WILSON.

Dr. David Marsh, a celebrated practitioner of New York, declared publicly, that one bottle of Halsey's Forest Wine contained more virtues than 50 of the large bottles of Sarsaparilla. Messrs. S. S. Sampson & Co., the largest and most respectable druggists in Syracuse, in a letter says: "From what they have heard and seen of Halsey's Forest Wine, it is an excellent and good medicine, and will undoubtedly become the leading medicine of the day." Dr. Mott, of New York, also subscribes to the virtues of Halsey's Forest Wine, by recommending it to many of his patients. Seven hundred certificates from physicians, clergymen, and individuals, of known respectability, have been given, testifying to the great cures made by "Dr Halsey's Forest Wine and Pills." Among them is the cure of Mr. John Sims, of 525 Pearl st. New York,—cured of affection of the Liver, and bad cough, after having been given over by his physicians, who pronounced his case seated Consumption. A child of Mr. William Bowers, Broadway, New York, who had been dreadfully afflicted with Scrofula, of four years standing, cured in less than six weeks time. Mary J Brown, daughter of Rev. James R. Brown, of Disease of the Heart, and incipient Consumption. Others of Jaundice, others of Piles, others of General Debility, others of Gravel Female Complaints, &c. Dr. Halsey's Office, No. 30 Broadway New York. The Forest Wine in large square bottles, $1 per bottle; six bottles for $5. Gum-coated Forest Pills, 25 cents per box. DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON.

THE discovery of the above preparation has established a new era in the history of the healing art; it is, in truth one of the greatest Medical discoveries of the age, because it will cure more than nine-tenths of a class of distressing diseases incidental to females in every stage of life, and which have heretofore resisted the best efforts of the Medical profession in all countries, to a degree beyond that of almost every other malady to which any portion of the human family is heir. The diseases to which we refer are usually known by the term of Female Complaints,
and comprises all the derangements to which females are liable in consequence of [illegible] of their organization. Among these are Prolapsus Uteri, or Falling of the Womb; Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb; Incidental Hemorrhage, or Flooding; Fluor Albus, or Whites; Chlorosis; Painful, Suppressed, and Irregular Menstruation, &c., with all their accompanying evils, (cancer excepted,) of whatever duration and severity. All these complaints can be pleasantly, safely, and certainly remedied by this preparation.

The claims of this Medicine to the confidence of the public are strengthened by the fact of its having received the approbation and liberal patronage of many prominent members of the Medical faculty in the United States, some of whom have voluntarily given letters of commendation, (see pamphlet,) sustaining all that is claimed for the Catholicon as a curative agent.

Pamphlets containing much useful information touching the nature and symptoms of the above diseases, together with testimonials from Ladies of the highest respectability, as certified by the most satisfactory authority in the pamphlet, to all which the attention of Ladies and Practitioners is respectfully invited, can be had gratis at the store of CARTER & BROTHER, Druggists.

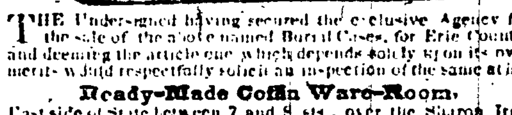
FISK'S PATENT METALIC BURIAL CASES.


THE Undersigned having secured the exclusive Agency for the sale of the above named Burial Cases, for Erie County, and deeming the article one which depends solely upon its own merits would respectfully solicit an inspection of the same at his Ready-Made Coffin Ware-Room.
East side of State between 7 and 8 sts., over the Sharon Iron Company's store where satisfactory references and testimonials as to their practical utility can be given, which together with a personal inspection cannot but recommend them to the favorable consideration of all those who in the dispensation of Divine Providence have occasion for the use of a Coffin. The undersigned would here add that these cases are of a classic form, and correspond in shape, to the outlines of a human body, are highly ornamental, and regarded as less repulsive, more beautiful and unique in appearance, than any other article used as receptacles for the dead; they are made of the most imperishable materials, are enameled inside and out, so as not to rust or corrode and when cemented together are perfectly air-tight, preventing the exhalation of offensive gases, so that when desired the remains can be kept for weeks before burial, awaiting the arrival of absent friends; they are light and portable, at the same time being more or less curvilinear, they possess more than sufficient strength to resist all the pressure of gasses from the body, which they are subject to while in use; and bodies may be disinterred even after a lapse of many years, and removed to any part of the country, without the slightest disagreeable odor arising from them.

In the use of these Burial Cases, the gratifying reflection is afforded to surviving friends and relatives, that the mortal remains of those once dearly beloved are enclosed and deposited where they will remain in peace, free from the irruption of water, the depredations of vermin, and comparatively beyond the unhallowed desecration of dissectors, and will be permitted to undergo a transformation, or return to their native elements, from natural causes alone.

☞ The undersigned has constantly on hand and for sale at his ware rooms as above Rose-wood, Mahogany, Black-walnut, cloth covered, and all kinds of cheaper Coffins of all sizes all ready for immediate use, also; shrouds of all sizes for both sexes.

N. B.—He is prepared to take the general superintendance of funerals, and furnish Hearse and Carriages if desired.

HURRAH FOR THE CHEAP CLOTHING STORE.
BILL.—Why, John what do you halloo for?
John.—Oh! I should tell you all about it if you would halloo worse than I did!
Bill.—Then tell me quick.
John.—Why, back at JACOB KOCH'S Clothing Store, No. 7, Reed House, and such a sight, and such a selling, and such a crowd you never saw before. He sells Clothing twenty-five per cent cheaper than any other store this side of New York.
Bill.—Well, what has he got?
John.—He has all kinds of Coats you can imagine, from a fine black Dress Coat down to a linen Coat; and in Vests he can't be beat. He has Satin Vests of all kinds, and has Velvet and Cloth Vests also, the best and prettiest you ever saw;—and he has the greatest assortment of Pants, in Erie, and he has them cloudy Pants, that new style just come out this Spring, and what else do you think he has? Why, a whole lot of Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, and a man can go and get his measure taken for a whole suit for little or nothing.
Bill.—You have told me so much that I am bound to go there and buy.
John.—Now, hold on, I have not told you all yet. He has the best assortment of Collars, Shirts, Undershirts, Drawers, Pocket Handkerchiefs, Cravats, Traveling Bags and Umbrellas I ever saw.
Bill.—Now, I have but thirty-five dollars with me, but I will go and buy that much at any rate before he sells all.
John.—I thought a little, only forty five dollars worth and I can hardly carry them alone; but I am going home now, to get some more money and tell all the neighbors about, for I know its to their advantage, and you must know that most of the storekeepers keep the New York made Clothing, but he has the Cutter in the store and gets every thing made here.
Bill.—Now, I know that they don't half sew goods in N. York.
John.—And another thing he sells only for cash, and I like it first rate, because it is always best to pay for what you get. Now, I tell what his Motto is, a good one too—"Quick Sales and Small Profits." Well good bye to you, but don't forget it is No. 7, Reed House, North side of the Diamond.

☞ $500 CHALLENGE. ☜
WHATEVER concerns the health and happiness of a people is at all times of the most valuable importance. I take it for granted that every person will do all in their power, to save the lives of their children, and that every person will endeavor to promote their own health at all sacrifices. I feel it to be my duty to solemnly assure you that WORMS, according to the opinion of the most celebrated physicians, are the primary causes of a large majority of diseases to which children and adults are liable; if you have an appetite continually changeable from one thing to another, Bad Breath, pain in the stomach, Picking at the Nose, Hardness and fullness of the Belly, dry Cough, slow Fever, Pulse irregular—remember that all these denote WORMS,

HOBENSACK'S WORM SYRUP.
An article founded upon Scientific principles, compounded with purely vegetable substances, being perfectly safe when taken, and can be given to the most tender Infant with decided beneficial effect, where Bowel Complaints and Diarrhea have made them weak and debilitated the Tonic properties of my Worm Syrup are such, that it stands without an equal in the catalogue of medicines, in giving tone and strength to the Stomach, which makes it an Infallible remedy for those afflicted with Dyspepsia, the astonishing cures performed by this Syrup after Physicians have failed, is the best evidence of its superior efficacy over all others.

THE TAPE WORM!
This is the most difficult Worm to destroy of all that infests the human system, it grows to an almost indefinite length becoming so coiled and fastened in the Intestines and Stomach effecting the health so sadly as to cause St. Vitus Dance, Fits, &c., that those afflicted seldom if ever suspect that it is Tape Worm hastening them to an early grave. In order to destroy this Worm, a very energetic treatment must be pursued, it would therefore be proper to take 6 to 8 of my Liver Pills so as to remove all obstructions that the Worm Syrup may act direct upon the Worm, which must be taken in doses of 2 Tablespoonfulls three times a day these directions followed have never been known to fail in curing the most obstinate case of Tape Worm.

HOBENSACK'S LIVER PILLS.
No part of the system is more liable to disease than the LIVER, it serving as a filterer to purify the blood, or giving the proper secretion to the bile; so that any wrong action of the Liver effects the other important parts of the system, and results variously, in Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, &c. We should, therefore, watch every symptom that might indicate the wrong action of the Liver. These Pills being composed of ROOTS AND PLANTS furnished by nature to heal the sick: Namely, 1st, an EXPECTORANT, which augments the secretion from the Pulmonary mucus membrane, or promotes the discharge of secreted matter. 2nd, an ALTERATIVE, which changes in some inexplicable and insensible manner the certain morbid action of the system. 3rd, a TONIC which gives tone and strength to the nervous system, renewing health and vigor to all parts of the body. 4th, a CATHARTIC, which acts in perfect harmony with the other ingredients, and operating on the Bowels, and expelling the whole mass of corrupt and vitiated matter, and purifying the blood, which destroys disease and restores health.

TO FEMALES.
You will find these Pills an invaluable medicine in many complaints to which you are subject. In obstructions either total or partial, they have been found of inestimable benefit, restoring their functional arrangements to a healthy action, purifying the blood and other fluids so effectually to put to flight all complaints which may arise from female irregularity, as headache, giddiness, dimness of sight, pain in the side, back, &c.

A DISCOVERY TO BLESS THE WORLD!!
L. A. PAGE'S ANODYNE OIL.
A SURE CURE FOR THE PILES.
A POSITIVE remedy is now known for this most distressing disease, in L. A. Page's ANODYNE OIL. This we do not expect to be believed until evidence is examined and a trial made. Procure a pamphlet from the agent and see its effects then if your faith is still wavering, sufferer, we entreat you to try one bottle, and confirm the fact by your own experience. Hundreds have doubted like you, and by a trial, are now rejoicing in a perfect cure. The use of one bottle will either cure, or satisfy you that another will accomplish the work. You need not purchase it by the dozen. This is applied to the seat of the disease as well as to the parts visibly affected; decomposes the tumorous ulcers, and heals the soreness all at the same time. Its virtue will bear testing, and this is its best recommendation. Whoever is distressed with this disagreeable malady, may be relieved and healed by the Anodyne Oil. The directions are full and complete and should be strictly followed in order to insure success, where is the sufferer who will not try it. General depot No. 11 East Seneca st., Buffalo N. Y.

CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS, PREPARED BY
DR. C. M. JACKSON,
AT THE GERMAN MEDICINE STORE,
120, Arch Street, Philadelphia.
Their power over the above diseases is not excelled—if equalled—by any other preparation in the United States as the cures attest, in many cases after skillful physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are withal, safe, certain and pleasant.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.
From the "Boston Bee."
The editor said, Dec. 22nd—
Dr. Hoofland's Celebrated German Bitters for the cure of Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, is deservedly one of the most popular medicines of the day. These Bitters have been used by thousands, and a friend at our elbow says he has himself received an effectual and permanent cure of Liver Complaint from the use of this remedy. We are convinced that, in the use of these Bitters, the patient constantly gains strength and vigor—a fact worthy of great consideration. They are pleasant in taste and smell, and can be used by persons with the most delicate stomachs with safety, under any circumstances. We are speaking from experience, and to the afflicted we advise their use.

"SCOTT'S WEEKLY," one of the best Literary papers published, said Aug 25—

"DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS, manufactured by Dr. Jackson, are now recommended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. As such is the case, we would advise all mothers to obtain a bottle, and thus save themselves much sickness. Persons of debilitated constitutions will find these Bitters advantageous to their health, as we know from experience the salutary effect they have upon weak systems."

MORE EVIDENCE.
The "Philadelphia Saturday Gazette," the best family newspaper in the United States. The editor says of
DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
"It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines, to the confidence and patronage of our readers; and therefore when we recommend Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters we wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostrums of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten after they have done their guilty race of mischief, but of a medicine long established, universally prized, and which has met the hearty approval of the faculty itself."

Evidence upon evidence has been received (like the foregoing) from all sections of the Union, the last three years, and the strongest testimony in its favor is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular Physicians of Philadelphia, than all other nostrums combined, a fact that can easily be established, and fully proving that a scientific preparation will meet with their quiet approval when presented even in this form.

That this medicine will cure Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, no one can doubt, after using it as directed. It acts specifically upon the stomach and liver; it is preferable to calomel in all bilious diseases—the effect is immediate. They can be administered to females or infants, with safety and reliable benefit at any time.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
This medicine has attained that high character which is necessary for all medicines to attain to induce counterfeiters to put forth spurious articles at the risk of the lives of those who are innocently deceived.
Look well to the marks of the Genuine
They have the written signature of C. M. JACKSON upon the wrapper, and his name blown in the bottle, without which they are spurious.

Every family should have a copy.
A valuable book, only 25 cts. per copy—Man know thyself.
DR. HUNTER'S Medical manual and hand book for the afflicted containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and Cure of every form of disease, contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self-abuse, or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities, and everything that would offend the ear of decency, from the result of some twenty years successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of disease of a delicate or private nature. To which is added, receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the Fever and Ague. For 25 cents a copy; six copies $1, will be forwarded to any part of the United States, by mail, free of postage. Address post paid, Box, 196 Post Office, or the Author 38 North Seventh street Philadelphia. Sept 1 1852 1y17

FIFTY DOLLARS FORFEIT.—Dr. Hunter will forfeit $50 if failing to cure any case of secret disease that may come under his care, no matter how long standing or afflicting. Either sex are invited to his private rooms, 38 North Seventh street, Philadelphia, without fear of interruption from other patients. Strangers and others who have been unfortunate in the selection of a Physician are invited to call.

IMPOTENCY.—Through unrestrained indulgence of the passions, by excess or self-abuse, the evils are numerous. Premature impotency, involuntary seminal discharges, wasting of the organs, loss of memory, a distaste for female society, general debility, or constitutional derangement, are sure to follow. If necessary, consult the Doctor with confidence; he offers a perfect cure.

READ AND REFLECT.—The afflicted would do well to reflect before trusting their health, happiness, and in many cases their lives, in the hands of physicians ignorant of this class of maladies. It is certainly impossible for one man to understand all the ills the human family are subject to. Every respectable physician has his peculiar branch, in which he is more successful than his brother professors, and to that he devotes most of his time and study. Years of practice, exclusively devoted to the study and treatment of diseases of the sexual organs, together with ulcers upon the body, throat, nose, or legs, pains in the head, or bones, mercurial rheumatism, strictures, gravel, irregularities, diseases arising from youthful excesses, or impurities of the blood, whereby the constitution has become enfeebled, enables the Doctor to offer speedy relief to all who may place themselves under his care.

Medicine forwarded to any part of the United States.—Price five and ten dollars per package. Sept 4 1852 1y17
